TEN CENTS A WEEK

ALUMNI BANQUET

Held Last Evening Attended with Many Pleasant Features.

Andrews Hall at six o'clock Tuesday evening, was the place, and the annual alumni banquet the occasion of the large gathering of graduates, friends of the institution and invited guests.

When greetings were over the party repaired to the chapel room in which had been placed long improvised tables decorated with center pieces of roses and other flowers of the season. The menu was made up of all the delicacies of the season, prepared and brought before the guests in an appetizing manner. After the repast had been concluded the banqueters pushed back their chairs from the one loaded, now depleted board, and prepared to give attention to the literary feast of the evening, by far the more abiding of the two.

Mr. Tasker B. Bowditch acted as toastmaster of the evening.

The first number on the program was a song, "Give a Rouse," by the Adelphi Glee Club.

At the conclusion of the music the toastmaster called upon Mr. William Wade Dyer, of the class of 1883, to deliver the alumni oration. Mr. Dyer, in responding, said that he was sorry to disappoint his audience, but that circumstances had rendered it unavoidable. The oration they missed would have been a "corker" had it been written.

To Mr. Archer Butler Hulbert, of the class of '95, had been entrusted the duty of writing the poem of the occasion. Mr. Hulbert drew a parallel between the larger colleges which boast superiority of numbers and costliness of equipment and his alma mater. The latter's instruction is not measured by the number of the student body and in a university, mathematics, Latin and Greek are no "bigger" than in Marietta College. Not size, but excellence makes a college, as well as a man. The poem was novel in style and the plan of expression, but is a recital of indisputable truths and a message of encouragement to the students and graduate alike when confronted with the boasts of larger institutions.

The Adelphians rendered another song, "He Who Trusts in Ladies Fair." President Perry then being called upon, made his third address before the alumni of the College when thus assembled in the local banquet room. President Perry stated that the year had been one of constant successes and no defeats. For a portion of the happiness and prosperity of the year he thanked the members of 1901, who had been a steady going and reliable class. The year had been quiet and uneventful. No property had ever been defaced or ruined by the seniors and no acts of vandalism had been perpetrated.

While gratified in this, the College had experienced profound sorrow in the deaths of Mr. E. R. Alderman, member of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Slack, member of the advisory board.

The isolation of the city and the College situated way down in the southeastern part of the state had been one of the most difficult obstacles which the athletic managers had been obliged to overcome. To meet teams of equal strength and reputation, Marietta's athletes had been compelled to travel almost across the state or else bear the expense of having other college teams travel an equal distance to the city. There are no enclosed athletic grounds, no grand stands, no possibility of making back money expended.

SOME THINGS NEEDED.

The President stated that he was looking for an alumnus that would donate the grounds and a suitable equipment.

The military department under Capt. Barbour's administration has done great work in effecting a more erect and soldierly bearing of the company. The general tone of the institution had been helped by the formation of a military company. Great credit is due Capt. Barbour and his officers for developing such proficiency in military training. The drill hall on Third street is not large enough for the company to go through with its evolutions. The President is looking for a second alumnus who will build a structure 100 feet long and 60 feet broad.

Marietta College has an intangible, subtle, evanescent spirit which is not found wholly in the alumni or students, but forms an integral part of the institution. This tone is of the right kind and is a priceless treasure, a sacred heritage from the past. The old College is rich in its past annals and it is of great moment that the traditions date back many years. Marietta is fortunate in one sense because of its isolation. It is the only institution in a large section of country standing for Christian education. In years to come its halls will be filled from the young people of two states. Its equipments and buildings are not extensive enough for its needs. The professors are overworked and underpaid. If it had the money it would blossom as the rose. A sum aggregating $10,000 must be secured for the running expenses of the next year.

President Perry urged the alumni to contribute money in sums, no matter how small, reminding them that the investment would be the most profitable they had ever made.

At the conclusion of his eloquent speech, President Perry was cheered to the echo, the class of 1901 leading the demonstration.

Dr. Dickinson called to the association's attention that in Dr. Cotton they had with them the only surviving member of the first graduating class.

Mr. W. W. Mills, at the request of the Board of Trustees and President Perry, presented a report of the finances. For several years previous it had been considered unwise to publish the statement of the actual condition of affairs. For one year the College carried on the work without a deficit, but this year such is not the case. The complete report, which is self explanatory, is given below:

At the meeting of the Trustees in the morning the salaries of five of the professors had been increased.

The present great need is money, which cannot come from any one or several men in sufficient sum for relief, but must be contributed by many.

Two of the prominent business men of the city, Chas. Penrose and Chas. Turner, had been asked to come on the Board of Trustees.

Prof. Henry Plumer, who is located at Parkersburg, was also invited to become a member of the Board and represent the state of West Virginia.

Prof. J. H. Chamberlin, who had served so faithfully for many years, was re-elected with the title of Dean.

Miss Agnes McKay, of the class of '99, will have charge of the historical department in the Academy.

After a song by the Glee Club, the war of words between Alpha Kappa and Psi Gamma literary societies was begun. Alpha Kappa was represented by President J. H. Mindling, and Psi Gamma by her President, J. H. Summers. Each representative lauded his society, and claimed the superior excellence. The applause received by each speaker was limited to the membership of the society he represented.

After a song by the Adelphians, Prof. C. A. Stanley, of the class of '58, responded to the toast of "Education in China." He gave an interesting sketch of the missionaries' efforts for college training in China.

Mr. Wm. E. Fay, of the class of '98, spoke of Marietta's missionaries in Africa. He has been absent for fifteen years. Graduates have gone to Africa, Turkey, Persia and China.

Dr. Patrick, of the class of '49, spoke reminiscences of his college days. He had not been back for 52 years.

Two solos were sung by Thos. Griffiths upon the request of the President. Other speakers followed and amid cheers and college yells the banquet was brought to an end.

AWFUL ACCIDENT.

Miss Lucy Hanna Instantly Killed by Grasping a Live Wire.

A terrible accident occurred at about six o'clock last evening. Miss Lucy Hanna, bookkeeper for the Register Publishing Co., was instantly killed by grasping an electric light wire which was heavily charged with the force.

During the storm Tuesday afternoon, a converter which is placed on a telegraph pole in front of Neubeck's hat store, was burned out by a bolt of lightning which struck and traveled down the wire to the box. By the destroying of the converter, which served to divide the current of two wires, one with a power of 2200 volts and the other charged with only enough current for the usual candle power incandescent light, the current from the first wire was thrown to the other wire, which ran into the Register office.

Miss Hanna had just finished writing a letter to a young man to whom she is said to have been engaged and who lives in New Jersey. She had occasion to put away some papers in the iron vault where valuables are deposited, and picking up the heavily charged light wire which was left free for just service as this, she entered the vault. Immediately a circuit was formed between the metal of the bulb and the iron floor. The unfortunate girl received the entire current and fell prostrate.

In a few minutes she was discovered, the cause determined and other employees saved from a similar fate. Miss Hanna was dead when found, life having departed instantaneously.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hanna, of Moore's Junction. Two sisters, Miss Ida Hanna and Mrs. L. P. Finch, live in the city.

The remains were taken to Fuller's undertaking establishment and there prepared for burial. No arrangements for the funeral have been made. Expressions of sympathy for the family were heard on every side.

FAITHFUL BOY

Met Death While Carrying Medicine to His Sick Sister.

As was stated in Tuesday's Leader, at a late hour Monday night John Fullerton, a young man whose home was in the vicinity of Moore's Junction, was killed by the B. & O. S. W. freight train as it was coming toward Marietta. The accident was not discovered until some time afterward, when the engineer on the outgoing midnight train saw the body lying beside the track.

The train was stopped and upon examination it was found that the body was horribly mangled. A faithful dog was lying beside the dead body of his master.

Young Fullerton was the son of John Fullerton, and his age was twenty-two years. He had walked to Marietta to get some medicine for his sick sister and upon his return it is supposed that he sat down to rest on the end of a cross tie and fell asleep.

The remains were brought to this city and after being prepared for burial by Undertaker Fuller were taken to his father's home. The funeral will take place today.

Nearly 7000 men will be thrown out of employment.

Phi Beta Kappa Candidates Initiated.

At the conclusion of the class day the members of the Phi Beta Kappa society met in the mathematic room. From the class of 1901 T. J. Summers, Flora Mason, E. V. James, E. Dana Johnson and J. W. Gorbey, and of the class of '98, Miss May Y. Chamberlain were initiated into the chapter.

The local Gamma endorsed the application of the College of Women of Western Reserve university for admission to the society roll.

A motion to empower the executive committee to appoint three delegates to the National Council at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 12, was carried. The meeting then adjourned sine die.

LENGTHY SESSION

Of City Council Disposes of Several Important Matters.

At the meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening the following members were present: Curtis, Plumer, Kerns, Savage, Toller, Matchett, Benedict and Lorentz.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with and the following building permits were granted: First Congregational church; Chas. Bodmar, two permits, one on Market and one on Fearing street.

The resignation of Thomas Hancock as city electrician was received and referred to the light committee.

Mr. Benedict recommended, for the Paving committee, that the bid of the Marietta Artificial Stone Co. to pave around the city electric building at 14 cents a foot be accepted. The complete cost of same was estimated at $335 by the committee. The contract was awarded, Mr. Toller voting no.

The Street Commissioner reported that Mr. McCullough had obstructed the natural course of drainage on his lots between Seventh and Sixth streets. By the action of Council the matter was referred to the Street Commissioner and City Solicitor.

According to the recommendation of the Bridge committee the Ohio River Bridge and Ferry Co. was granted the use of Second street instead of the use of Third street for an approach to their proposed bridge.

The amended ordinance recommended by the Railroad committee, granting a franchise to D. H. Buell and others for the construction and operation of street railway route No. 4 was passed.

The Police committee recommended that Council construct a shed and make such arrangements that the city's prisoners can be given work on a stone pile. A motion to that effect, carried. The matter as to the advisability of purchasing apparatus to crush stone by machinery was discussed, but the prevailing opinion seemed to be that it would be too expensive.

The ordinance granting to Messrs. Moyer, Noll and Grafton a franchise for a heating plant was passed, Mr. Matchett voting no.

Mr. Reed, of the River Gas Co., asked permission to change the location of the gas regulator from the corner of Hart and Pike streets to a place where it would not be rendered useless by high water. Permission was granted. It will probably be removed to East Greene street.

Mr. Lorenz called the attention of Council to the fact that the low places along upper Washington street were used as dumping grounds for garbage. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

The Mayor's report was received and placed on file.

The City Engineer was ordered to give a grade for a sidewalk in front of the Christian church property on Fort square.

City Engineer Mason made a lengthy report as to the probable cause of the unsatisfactory condition of the pivot pier of the Putnam street bridge. He also made suggestions as to plans for a protection of the pier, the estimated cost of which is $2,669.70. His report was referred to the Bridge committee.

The copy of an ordinance was presented to Council granting a franchise for the construction of an Ohio river bridge, with its approach on Muskingum street, to the Marietta and Williamstown Bridge and Transportation Company. The ordinance reads almost the same as the Ohio River Bridge and Ferry Co.'s ordinance, with the exception of the location of the approach. The matter was referred to a special committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Benedict, Matchett and Plumer.
